Author's Biography

John J. Fox grew up in Richmond, Virginia. He graduated from Washington & Lee University with a BA in U.S. History in 1981 and then served on active duty in the U.S. Army for seven years as an armor officer and aviator. His 2004 book, Red Clay to Richmond: Trail of the 35th Georgia Infantry Regiment, received considerable critical acclaim from fellow historians and book reviewers and was awarded the “2005 James I. Robertson Jr. Literary Prize for Confederate History” and a 2006 research award from the Georgia Secretary of State. Angle Valley Press released his newest book, The Confederate Alamo: Bloodbath at Petersburg's Fort Gregg on April 2, 1865, in April 2010. His articles have appeared in Civil War Times magazine, America's Civil War magazine and numerous newspapers. Fox lives with his family in Winchester, Virginia.
